

GEORGE BERT'S STRATEGY HOBBART TO BE IN STATE TO-DAY AT HIS HOME, CARROLL HALL.

He Has Divided the Ladysmith Relief Column Into Three Parts, and Has Two of These Cut Off from Their Base, While He Is Moving to Attack the Third at Pietermaritzburg.

Here and the Second Yorkshires. The rest of his command is a cavalry brigade from the Cruiser Corps, the British flag ship on the Cape of Good Hope station.

The Doris, which is an eleven gun, nineteen and a half ton boat, has a complement of 450 men. It is hardly likely that the Naval Brigade consists of more than two hundred. If it is so large, but they have with them some of the long-range guns that have done such execution at Ladysmith and have so largely helped to prevent the Boers from capturing General White's force.

Started from Hoptown.

Methuen's men were expected up to Monday last on the Orange River, at a point eight miles south of Kimberley. Their position there was at Hoptown, on the southwestern border of the Orange Free State. Between them and Kimberley, which they were expected to relieve, lay a rather open veldt country.

The expedition was stationary for several days, awaiting supplies and the order to move from General Buller. The work was not looked upon by any of those taking part in it as by any means a military promenade.

The forces were equipped for fighting. It is understood that they had with them no artillery except that taken by the naval brigade. Besides the supply of ammunition, they carried electric searchlights fixed on tripods. These were intended to blaze the way for forced night marches and to make lurking Boers who might meditate attack in the dark.

They had another function also. Lieutenant-Colonel Ernest Rhodes, the brother of Lord Cromer, who is imprisoned in Kimberley, hoped to be able to signal that town and get news from its beleaguered garrison before Methuen relieved it.

Lord Methuen expected to make a quick dash to Kimberley. The orders were that everything in the line of superfluous baggage should be left behind. Only four war correspondents were taken, among whom was a Journal man. He was compelled, so strict was the command, to leave the place of more fodder than was absolutely necessary, to proceed on foot with the other correspondents.

Methuen's Splendid Record.

Rarely has an expedition been formed so fully represented the might of Britain's arms as this one under Methuen. The commanding Lieutenant-General himself is a veteran and a hero. He saw service in the Ashanti War, in 1873, and did splendid work in what was known as Colonel Methuen's Horse, in Sir Charles Warren's Bechuanaland expedition fourteen years ago. In the Boer war campaign in 1882 he was on the staff serving as press censor.

Colonel Arthur Paget, in command of the First Battalion of the Scots Guards, fought with credit in Ashanti, in the Sudan and in Burma.

Another one who has ever seen paintings of British battle scenes or copies of them will recall the gorgeous uniforms of the Guards. They are the men in scarlet, with the red breeches, the typical and best soldiers of the British army. Americans who have visited London have seen them doing duty in the Guards' barracks, for instance, the flower of London and at the many public buildings in the metropolis.

They are a picked body of men. Physically they differ from the Household Cavalry as being the tallest, broadest and handiest in the army. The social position of a Guardsman is unique.

There are only three of these regiments of guards, but they are divided into battalions, and one reads of the First, Second and Third Grenadier Guards, for instance, which means the First, Second and Third battalions.

Fame of the Coldstream Guards.

The Coldstream Guards are the men in scarlet uniforms with blue facings and bearskins adorned with red plumes. They fought at Waterloo, every man a hero. The famous regiment also lost many a brave officer and man in the Boer war. They were in the battles of the Alamo, Inkeren and Sebastopol.

In later years they distinguished themselves at Delahouet and at Soudan.

"Dan" Godfrey, the English musician recently in this country, is bandmaster of the Coldstream.

The Grenadier Guards are the men referred to in the rattle of patriotic march, "The British Grenadiers." They wear scarlet uniforms with blue facings and have white plumes in their bearskins.

The Scots Guards have for their Colonel the Duke of Connaught. Their uniforms are the same as that of the other guards, except that they have no plumes in their bearskins.

When the Guards sailed for South Africa they took with them $15,000 worth of choice viands, fruits and wines. This was intended only for two months' supply, to supplement the ordinary rations. Alfred Rothschild sent them as a present one hundred dozen of the finest champagnes he could obtain in the market and three thousand cigars.

The Guards have always been famous for their luxurious tastes. Other patriotic Britons, knowing their tastes, furnished quantities of additional luxuries. The equipment of liquors and other supplies, and especially the publicity that was given to it, greatly displeased Lord Wolseley, who informed the officers that he believed that such preparations for war on their part were calculated to have a demoralizing effect upon the service.

The reply of the Guards was that as long as they did the fighting that was expected of them they were not likely to criticize their bills of fare in camp.

The position of Methuen's men when they encountered the Boers shows that they had marched over twenty miles in their Orange River camp and were about sixty miles from Kimberley.

BRITISH OFFICERS KILLED AND WOUNDED.

BRIGADIER-GENERAL FETHERSTONHAUGH—Severely wounded; the British army list for 1899 gives no Fetherstonhaugh in the list of brigadier-generals, but two colonels of that name; one on the active list. They are Colonel Richard Fetherstonhaugh, of the Royal Scots, late commanding the Third King's Royal Rifles, and Colonel John David Fetherstonhaugh, late commanding the Second Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders. The dispatches do not indicate which of these two is the officer wounded.

Third Grenadier Guards.

FIRST LIEUTENANT FRASER L. FRYER—Killed; was aide de camp to the Lieutenant-Governor of Burma last year. He was born in 1873.

LIEUTENANT-COLONEL BYRE M. S. GARBE—Wounded; regimental commander; has an Egyptian and Soudan record, in which campaigns he won a medal and the Bronze Star.

FIRST LIEUTENANT WILLIAM BLUNDELL-HOLLINSHEAD—Wounded; received his commission in 1897; born in 1871.

LIEUTENANT LESLIE—Wounded; assigned to the Grenadiers recently, and his name does not appear among the officers of this regiment in the army list for 1899.

MAJOR DUGLAS J. HAMILTON—Severely wounded. He was born in 1856, and was a staff officer of the Scots Guards. Major Hamilton served in Egypt in 1882, and in the Sudan in 1885.

First Northumberland Fusiliers.

LIEUTENANT ROBERT W. M. BRINE—Killed. He was born in 1876, and has a record of service in Egypt.

CAPTAIN EDWARD B. BAGAR—Killed. He was born in 1860, and commissioned a captain while serving in Egypt in 1880.

MAJOR EDMUND W. DASHWOOD—Severely wounded. He was born in 1858, and was given his majority while serving in Egypt in 1897.

SECOND LIEUTENANT FRANCIS L. FESTING—Dangerously wounded. He is but twenty-two years old, yet has an Egyptian record.

LIEUTENANT CHARLES E. FISHBOURNE—Dangerously wounded. He was born in 1869, and served with his regiment in Egypt.

CAPTAIN DOUGLAS SAPP—Severely wounded. He has been a company commander since 1892. He is thirty-three years old, and was never under fire until the battle of Belmont.

Second Northumberland Fusiliers.

SECOND LIEUTENANT C. W. BARLOW—Severely wounded. He received his commission in 1897.

CAPTAIN LEWIS G. FREELAND—Severely wounded. He was born in 1867, and was commissioned as lieutenant in 1891. He was but recently promoted to captain's rank.

But a Visit from Joseph Chamberlain to the Castle Leads to Long Conferences.

Windsor, Eng., Nov. 23.—Emperor William, the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Connaught and Prince Christian, of Schleswig-Holstein, shot in the Great Park this morning, near Cumberland Lodge, where they lunched.

The two young German princes visited the House of Parliament, in London, in the forenoon.

There was a strictly family dinner at the Castle this evening, but the Queen was not present, owing to the death of the Princess of Leiningen. For the same reason the military bands will not play at the Castle during the remainder of the Imperial visit.

The Secretary of State for the Colonies, Joseph Chamberlain, arrived at the Castle on a flying visit, during the day, and was received by the Kaiser. Mr. Chamberlain has been in the Kaiser's interview with the German Ambassador, subsequently conferring with Count von Buelow.

Emperor William, on his return from shooting, summoned Count von Hatzfeldt to a long audience.

Noted Rogue a Mysterious Prisoner.

Charles Colles Baynor, alias John Ryan, thirty years old, and No. 1475 in the Rogers' Gallery, who gave his address as No. 647 Second avenue, New York, was taken in a patrol wagon to police headquarters late last night by Detective Sergeant Murphy and Farley, and held as suspicious person. They were captured somewhere uptown, just where, could not be learned.

Crew of Buoy Tender Rescued.

The schooner James W. Lee, government buoy tender, was ashore at Cold Spring Harbor, N. Y., yesterday afternoon, and was floated by heavy ice. The Life Saving Crew near Cold Spring, took the crew off the schooner, in a heavy sea.

BODY OF GARRET A. HOBART AS IT WILL LIE IN STATE AT CARROLL HALL.

AGUINALDO IS A HATLESS FUGITIVE

He Is Seen Spattered with Mud and with Clothes Torn.

Manila, Nov. 23.—A Spanish corporal captured by the Filipinos arriving from Tulae says he saw Aguinaldo, accompanied by fifteen men, arrive at Dayabon on November 13, hatless, his clothes torn and spattered with mud and the horses exhausted.

Aguinaldo, coming with his companions to Dagupan and a shot was fired. The inhabitants of San Carlos met the Americans with a band formerly attached to the insurgent army and the Alcaldes (Mayors) with General MacArthur and Colonel Bell, in a carriage, headed a procession through the town.

General MacArthur has returned to Tulae and has established his headquarters at Aguinaldo's former residence.

During the entire movement from Jerona to Dagupan and a shot was fired. The inhabitants of San Carlos met the Americans with a band formerly attached to the insurgent army and the Alcaldes (Mayors) with General MacArthur and Colonel Bell, in a carriage, headed a procession through the town.

PARTIES IN IRELAND NOTE FOR REUNION.

Appoint a Committee to Confer with the Redmond Faction.

Dublin, Nov. 23.—A conference of the Nationalist members of Parliament was held at the Mansion House here to-day, with the object of bringing about a reunion of the different Irish factions.

Timothy Harrington presided. Only a score of the Commissioners were present.

Mr. Healy explained the absence of John Dillon and his followers, but he said he thought it was the duty of the conference to proceed to the consideration of the proposed law of Mr. Redmond's party and discuss a basis for reunion.

Mr. Healy added that under the circumstances he believed it was best to propose the resolution adopted at the last conference and subsequently rescinded, namely, that a committee of the conference be appointed to confer with Mr. Redmond's party with a view of accomplishing a reunion of the Irish National representatives.

After a discussion, in which Arthur O'Connor declared that the proposed resolution to attack the force of the late Vice-President, should only be appointed with the distinct understanding that Home Rule should be made the main object in and out of season, the resolution was adopted.

P. J. Power dissented and resigned the secretaryship of the meeting.

FOUR HUNDRED DERVISHES
KILLED IN BATTLE.

The Sirdar Reports That They Were Mowed Down by His Maxims.

Calcutta, Nov. 23.—General Wingate, with an Egyptian force, moved from Bahadri yesterday to attack the force of Ahmed Pasha, reported to be at Netissa (Dressa), twenty-three miles from the River Nile, on the road to Genial (Gimel).

The Sirdar (General Kitchener) has telegraphed to Lord Cromer, the British Minister, as follows:

"Omdurman, Nov. 23.—Wingate found Netissa evacuated, pushed on to Bahadri, four miles further, and found Pasha's forces encamped."

"They were forthwith engaged by the troops under Mahon, with four Maxims and two guns, and the Jihadis, under Gorrige."

"The dervishes charged, with all their old dash, to within eighty yards of the guns. Wingate, with the infantry, arrived in time to support Mahon and cleared the whole camp."

"The dervishes bolted through the bush, pursued by mounted troops. Wingate estimates Pasha's force at 2,500 men, of whom 400 were killed."

"Wingate captured many prisoners, grain, rifles and spears. The Egyptian casualties were three wounded."
